

There's nowhere to be
But now...here.

Nowhere Fast

a matter of perspective

by Anni Zimmerman

The experience of time

change

decay

There is no such thing

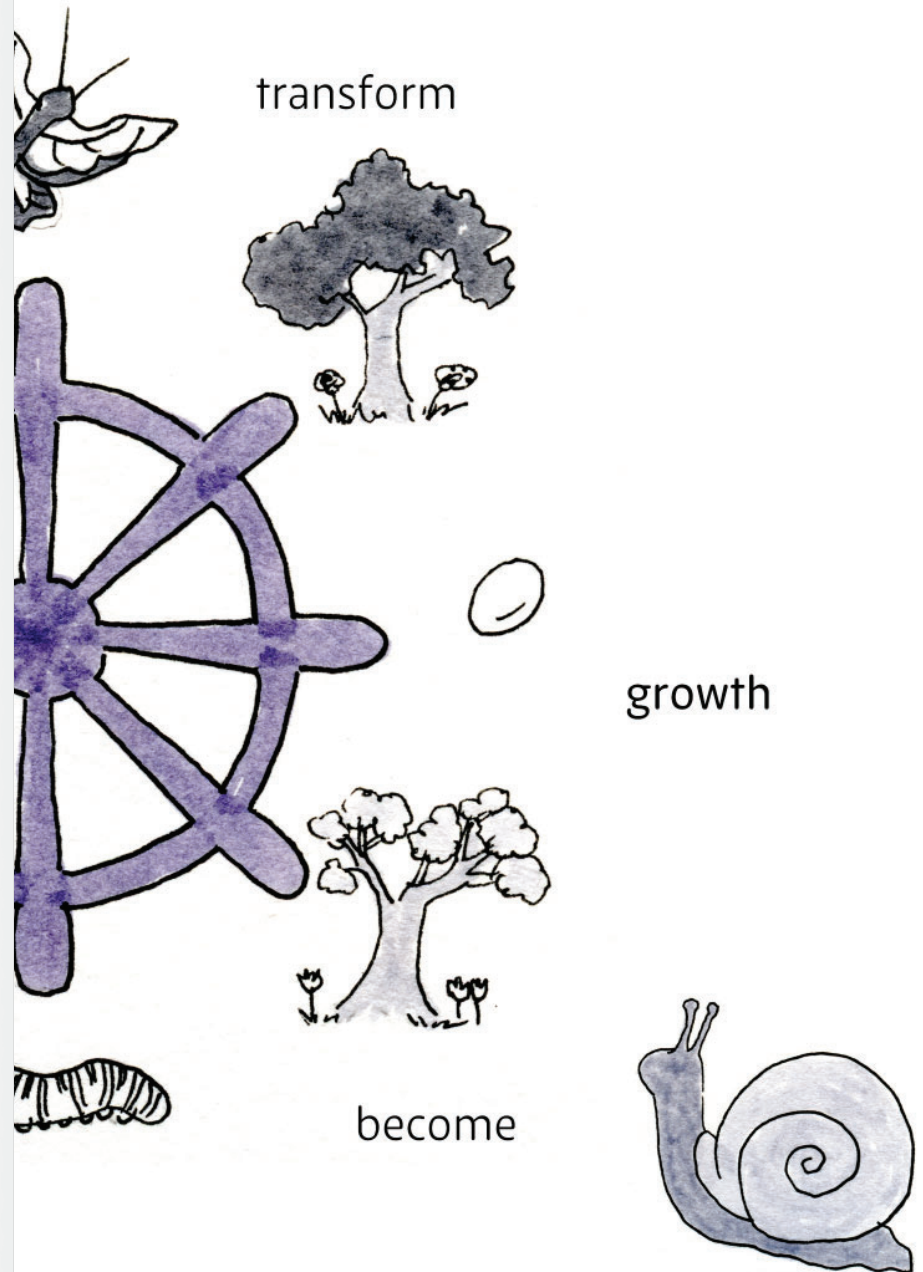

as no thing happening

Change is the breath of the world.
Time is just how we count it.

Let the noise fall away.
Let the shell crack
if it's too small.

Let it go.

And notice what remains.

What would happen if you lived in the moment?

Presence is a place

Noticing is its own kind of magic.
